

Natives angry at land deal

HAMILTON, Tuesday: Aborigines were angry that land around Condah had been given to soldier settlers without their having had a chance to get it, Pastor R. W. Saunders, of Hamilton Church of Christ, said last night.

Returned men among the aborigines felt deep resentment that their ancestral land should have been given to others, he said.

For a great many years land in the vicinity of Condah has been a mission station and reserve for aborigines.

Last year the Public Works Department called for tenders for removal of the historic old mission church at Condah.
