

Submission to Yoorrook Justice CommissionFrom: Franklin Jockel*Dated: 29 April 2024Submission:

Country to me means that there should be no Apartheid laws introduced into Australia. There needs to be no discrimination in Australia based on genetics or the supposed colour of your skin.

I was born in Richmond, Victoria and what should have happened is that the "Mob" who claimed the area should have adopted me and all the other people born in their area and then we are one Australian family. The so called First Australians have been conquered and that's history. Get over it and let's not have Apartheid inn Australia.

What has happened to mob is people are dividing Australia between "Us" and "Them". Setting up fences so I can't go there. It's wrong and should not be allowed.

Good practices are acknowledging that everyone born here and immigrating here is a part of the one family and welcomed in as such. We are all a part of the land and we are all one. No separate laws for separate peoples.
