Telling the truth...facts without spin...is important. History cannot be suppressed. The good and the bad aspects of truth-telling is fundamental to creating a mature understanding of Australia as a nation with its own unique history, culture and place in the world both prior and subsequently to British colonisation, post WW2 immigration and its current multicultural settler colonial status. It's FNs culture/history prior to colonisation combined with post colonial history which gives Australia its unique place in the world.
